Airport Revenue Is No Issue

This Is an Airport, Not an Air-Line

If we can clear up one point in connection with the proposed municipal airport there is no reason why the City of Hope shouldn't vote unanimously for immediate purchase of the necessary land. The point to be disposed of is this: Will the airport produce any worth-while revenue? The answer is "No." This isn't a transportation project—it is merely a facility leading up to a transportation project.

Ellis Proposes Arkansas TVA River Project

Eight States Would Benefit From Roosevelt-Backed Plan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Creation of another "TVA" to be known as the Arkansas Valley Authority was proposed Friday by Rep. Ellis who said it was drafted at the suggestion of President Roosevelt. It would operate in the White, St. Francis, Arkansas and Red river basins of Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and New Mexico.

The Agency would establish "yardstick rates" in its area, which would embrace 308,165 square miles. The area, Ellis said, was seven times larger than the Tennessee Valley.

The corporation would sell its power to municipalities and co-operatives at rates based on the cost of production.

The Authority would be given the right to issue up to 100 million dollars of bonds to acquire existing systems.

Ellis said the president had indicated he would favor immediate passage.

Three new dams proposed and specifically authorized, are:

Bull Shoals on White river in Arkansas; Table Rock on the White in Missouri; and the Narrows dam on the Little Missouri in Arkansas.

"These are all of multiple purpose projects and the three of them would cost a total of 78 million dollars," said Ellis.

Doctors 'Lift' Headaches

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

ROCHESTER, Minn. — The Mayo Clinic is looking over morning headaches from a new point of view.

It is seeking to determine whether they can be avoided by tilting the bed so that the head is about a foot and a half higher than the feet. Doctors E. V. Allen and A. R. Maclean discuss in the Clinic's Proceedings a woman who had headaches for 21 years. They occur at intervals and finally were diagnosed as migraine.

Then an abrupt change occurred. She woke up with a headache almost every morning. The change came along with high blood pressure, and apparently was related to it in some way.

The tilting treatment was tried. On only two days did she wake with a headache and then it was mild. When the bed was not raised, the constant headache returned.

The two physicians will continue their research.

British Launch Mighty Raid

Over 500 Bombers Take Part in Assault Friday

By The Associated Press
British bombers, protected by hundreds of fighter planes, swarmed over north western France for an hour in a daylight raid Friday blasting bases, airfields and other military objectives.

Conical observers counted fifty bombers roaring over the channel at one place. The raid, one of the heaviest ever attempted by the British, was the first in which such a large number of fighters was used for protection.

Eight-gun fighters outnumbered the bombers 10 to 1, indicating that at least 500 fighters were used.

The raid was described as resembling the mass German daylight raids in the early part of the war.

Pfeiffer Store Is Damaged by Fire

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Fire broke out in Pfeiffer Bros. Store, one of the largest of its kind in Arkansas, Friday and caused damage of $50,000.

A fire department found the flames centered in a column on the first floor at the main entrance. Two hours later the flames had gone to the second floor and another alarm was sent in.

Samuel Strauss, vice-president of the company said the damage was estimated between $30,000 and $40,000, with a water damage of at least $10,000.

Pennsylvania's Superhighway, Financial Success on Early Revenues, May Extend to Philadelphia

Toll Road's Revenues Running Ahead of Estimates

By CHARLES G. MILLER
NEA Special Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa. — First three months' operation of the 160-mile superhighway between Harrisburgh and Pittsburgh convinces the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission it will have no difficulty getting funds for an extension to Philadelphia.

Federal agencies financed the project originally. The PWA granted $31,500,000, or 45 per cent of the estimated cost. The commission issued $40,800,000 in bonds and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation purchased the entire issue. Walter A. Jones, chairman of the commission, has been trying to get further federal aid for the Philadelphia extension, but he believes today the entire $55,000,000 cost of the eastward stretch can be financed through sale of bonds to the public.

"I believe the Pennsylvania Turnpike's record of earnings has answered the question of whether the road will pay for itself to the entire satisfaction of all concerned," says Chairman Jones.

Gov. Arthur H. James recently authorized the state highway department to spend up to $75,000 for a traffic and land survey for the extension of the road to Philadelphia.

The road opened Oct. 1, when the tourist season was over.

Revenue for October and November aggregated $410,586, a daily average of $6731 as compared with the engineers' estimates for the first two months of $6555. In these first two months 434,338 motor vehicles of all types used the turnpike.

Seasonal slackening of traffic and unusually severe weather with snow storms cut passenger car travel in November, but truck traffic increased.

In October 14,884 trucks paid tolls; in November 16,017. The commission expects truck traffic to increase.

Truckers are slow to change established routes but many companies have been experimenting with test trucks to determine for themselves whether the monetary and time-saving features of the turnpike warrant the rate. But traffic increased from 776 in October to 814 in November.

A through trip costs $1.50 for a passenger car or $2.25 for a round-trip ticket, while the truck fare ranges from $4 to $10.

Receipts will be applied to amortization of the commission's bond issue. Retirement date is 1954. When the debt is paid the turnpike will be turned over to the state highway department for maintenance as a free road.

Easy grades of the road and the straight smooth surfaces are a temptation to motorists. Sixty state motor police patrol the road but excessive speeds draw only notes of caution.

Most of the cars that have met disaster have been burned out from their high speeding. There have been but few smashups and only four fatalities.

Much of the territory through the Allegheny Mountains is subject to severe snowstorms, but snowplows quickly clear the four traffic lanes.

On problem for the turnpike's maintenance force is the freezing of the heavy mists that roll down the mountain sides. Cinder used on icy pavements are chemically treated with calcium chloride that melts the ice.

The PWA is now willing to grant additional $1,000,000 for a radio traffic control system and other improvements.

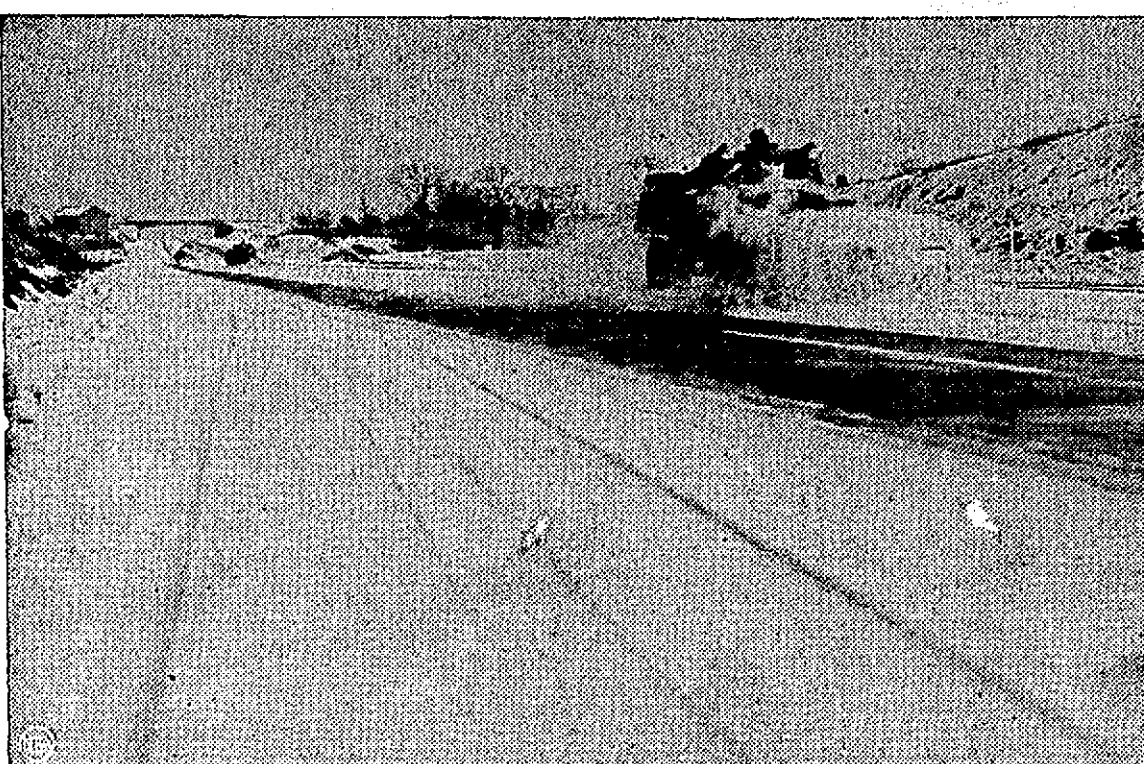

Negro Forger Arrested Here

E. Hartsfield, Parole Violator, Jailed Thursday

An all-day search by local officers and state policemen resulted in the arrest of Edward Hartsfield, negro fugitive wanted at McGehee and Beebe on forgery and uttering charges, about 8:45 Thursday night at a negro house near Hope.

Hartsfield was recently released from the Arkansas State Prison where he served two years of a four year sentence for forgery. Faced with the same charge again his parole was automatically broken, and state authorities issued a notice for his arrest. After his arrest he was lodged in Hempstead county jail and will be turned over to prison authorities.

Officers assisting in the search and arrest were State Policemen, Haynie, short and Wilson, Chief J. W. Jones of the local force and Deputy Sheriff Tom Middlebrooks.

Japs Warned of Enemy Raid

New Navy Proposal for Defense Is Approved

NEW YORK—(AP)—Domi, Japanese news agency, broadcasting from Tokyo Friday, said the cabinet approved an army and navy proposal for tightening the nation's air defenses "urgently needed in view of the emergency situation."

"In an emergency the Japanese people must be prepared against enemy raids," the news agency said. Hideki Tojo, war minister, told the cabinet:

"Completion of air defenses throughout the country simultaneously will be difficult but it is absolutely necessary to make the Tokyo-Yokohama and the Osaka-Kobe areas safe against air raids."

Action, Power Asked by F. D.

Would Speed Up Transfer of Equipment to British

WASHINGTON—(AP)—After Roosevelt asked quick action on his vast lend-lease program, administration leaders asked congress Friday to give him sweeping powers to transfer American-made military equipment to Great Britain "and other warring democracies."

The president told his press conference just before the legislation was introduced that the bill's special powers were needed to avoid delay.

He said these powers would be: "1. Manufacture in arsenals, factories and shipyards or otherwise procure any defense article for the government of any country whose defense the president deems vital to defense of the U. S.

"2. Sell, transfer, exchange, lease, lend or otherwise dispose of to any such government any defense article.

"3. Test, inspect, repair, recondition or otherwise to place in good working order any defense article for any such government.

"4. Communicate to any such government any defense information pertaining to any defense article furnished to any such government.

"5. Relief for export of any defense article to any such government."

A statement issued by congressional leaders said that a provision to allow the President to use articles, shipyards and materials vital for the defense of the United States and other countries, would be introduced.

Under this provision the damaged British battleship Renown could be repaired in the Brooklyn naval yard.

As to the section permitting the communication of "defense information," Sen. Barkley, Kentucky, said "It would give President Roosevelt discretionary authority."

"This information would relate only to defense articles supplied to foreign countries under the bill."

"This means that we shall be producing the same material for our friends and ourselves."

"This would also eliminate double assembly lines in factories."

Dr. James W. Branch to Army February 1

Dr. James W. Branch received orders Thursday morning from the War Department, ordering him for one year duty with the Army Medical Corps. He will be permanently stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. Dr. Branch will be on the staff of the Fort hospital.

Fort Knox is one of the Army's largest forts and is a training center for tank and artillery.

Dr. and Mrs. Branch and sons will leave Hope February 1, for Fort Knox.

State's Tourist Trade 1/2 Million

Brings New Money to Arkansas, Walker Tells Rotary

Cultivation of the tourist trade brought $500,000 of new money into Arkansas last year, and it is one of the most worth-while trade promotions any state or city can engage in, Linus Walker, proprietor of the Walker Tourist Court just east of town on U. S. 67, told Hope Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

At his own court last year, Mr. Walker said, there were registered 800 cars from 43 states, the District of Columbia, Mexico, the Canal Zone, and Guatemala.

These 800 cars represented an average expenditure per car of $7 per night spent in Hope, for lodging, food, entertainment and incidentals, the speaker continued.

Mr. Walker pointed out that the tourist business of the United States is a $-billion-a-year industry, representing two-thirds as much money as the entire output of the farms of the nation.

On an appropriation of $78,000 for the two-year legislative period, Mr. Walker said, the State Publicity Department managed to trace $50,000 of new tourist money to Arkansas and the department had 20,000 inquiries from its national advertising campaign in magazines and other media.

The speaker urged Hope to follow up every advantage in the battle between different sections to get the nation's tourist business. He pointed out that U. S. 67 is a fine piece of state paving frequently praised by tourists, but that Hope has a bad condition on Third street, which is too narrow for transcontinental traffic and should be widened and repaved. He also suggested abolition of parking on Third street downtown.

The rise of U. S. 82 as a tourist route—with a paved road from Texarkana through El Dorado to Lake Village, and across the Mississippi river on a new bridge, is cutting into traffic on U. S. 67, and we should be constantly alert in defense of our own traffic, he concluded.

Terrell Cornelius urged united support of the state-wide infantile paralysis campaign beginning January 13.

Randall Dixon, Little Rock, was a guest.

Strategic City Falls After a Week of Battle

Valona Is Last South Albanian Port Held by Italians

ATHENS—(AP)—Klisura, strategically important town on the central Albanian battle front, has fallen to the Greeks after a week of bitter fighting, the Greek official announcement said Friday.

As a result, the Italians probably will be forced to give up Tepeleni, 15 miles to the west on the Greek line of march toward Valona, military circles said.

Valona is the last important port in southern Albania in Italian hands, and the immediate object of the Greek drive.

The Greeks also were reported to have advanced a few miles beyond Klisura toward Berat, with the Italians in disorder.

Premier John Metaxas announced the taking of Klisura to the cabinet Friday morning, with wide-spread Greek rejoicing. Church bells pealed throughout the country.

The Greeks said they had not had time to count the number of prisoners nor "the large quantity of material seized."

Italians Claim Hits

ROME—(AP)—Italian planes and naval units striking hard in the war at sea hit a British battleship with air bombs, sank a submarine and torpedoed two merchantmen, the high command reported Friday.

In addition, the communique said "Italian warships effectively bombed enemy coast positions" in the Greek campaign.

The British battleship was not identified but the communique said it was "hit during an attack on a large naval formation in the eastern Mediterranean."

Preacher Hits Evils to Youth

Tabernacle Revival Draws Large Nightly Crowds

Striking out at what he termed the forces of evil conspiring to destroy the character, life and souls of youth, the Rev. Phinas Lewis, discussed at length the subject of "Sin in Its True Color," at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, where he is conducting a series of revival services, which close Sunday night.

To the largest week night crowd yet to attend the meeting, the evangelist attacked the modern dance, road houses, and suggestive movies, stating that these three evils have done more to corrupt the morals of America than any other evil.

Congregational singing led by S. A. Mays of Camden, and special singing by Mrs. Phinas Lewis, the Tabernacle quartet, the Tabernacle trio and others is an added feature in the services.

The Rev. Lewis will speak at the 11 o'clock service at the Tabernacle Sunday morning, and will deliver the final sermon in this series on Sunday night. There will be no service on Saturday night. A great crowd is expected for the Friday night meeting.

More than 500 is the Sunday school goal at the Tabernacle Sunday, Rev. J. E. Hamill, pastor, said Friday. "Due to inclement weather we failed to reach 500 last Sunday, but that is the goal for next Sunday, and we feel certain of reaching it," he added.

RAF Pummels French Coast

Daylight Assault Continued After Night Raids

LONDON—(AP)—British bombers pummeled the cross-Channel targets along the French coast Friday in a large-scale daylight assault and there was continuation of night raids against the German Ruhr district.

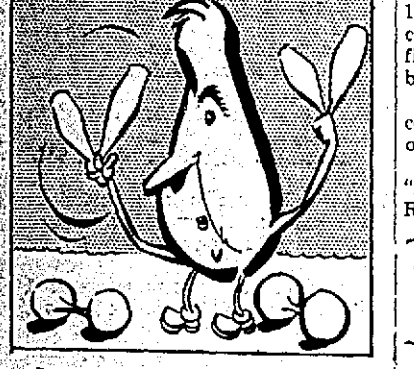

The RAF began the French coast attack shortly after noon and a little later a large formation of twin-engined British bombers came roaring back from Boulogne, French "invasion port."

Come and Get It
What to Eat in Winter—and Why
You Require More Calories When Mercury Dips

Calories are muscle builders.
Mr. duBois, a former food chemist for the government, is a nationally recognized authority on diet.
By WILBUR L. duBOIS, M. A.
Our working machine operates at its best when given just the right amount of fuel to burn. We can estimate our fuel requirements quite accurately by using a measure supplied by food science—the calorie. In a device called a calorimeter, scientists have measured the energy of hundreds of foods, and expressed this in calories. They know how many calories are required to keep the average person going. In this respect nutrition is an exact science.

Food consumption varies greatly with the degree of activity and the weight of the individual. A man weighing 150 pounds needs 2200 to 2300 calories in 24 hours; light work 2300 to 3000 calories; work requiring some muscular strength, 3000 to 3500 calories... work calling for severe muscular effort, 4000 to 6000 calories. Heavier men require more in proportion.
Temperature has an effect on the amount of food needed, exposure to cold demanding more fuel. So during the winter larger amounts of calories are required.
In the guide below, there is listed the fuel value in calories of various foods. The items are interchangeable with others of the same class—vegetable for vegetable, for example. If a mixed diet and the principles of nutrition discussed in these articles, select a menu which apparently will supply all the fuel you need. Then watch the scales and vary the quick-fuel foods (carbohydrates) until your fuel remains as you want it.
In the following foods, each item yields 100 calories:
Fruits—1 large apple, 1 medium banana, 5 medium prunes, 2 tablespoons of raisins, 1/2 large grapefruit, 1 large orange, 2 medium pears, 3 medium peaches.
Vegetables: 2 1/2 oz. baked beans (navy or lima), 4 1/2 oz. creamed carrots, 7 1/2 oz. fresh carrots, 1/2 cup creamed rutabagas, 1 medium potato, cup split pea soup.
Dairy Products: 1 tablespoon butter or other fat, large cup buttermilk, 1 oz. American cheese, 1 square sweet milk chocolate, 1/2 cup cocoa with milk; 1/4 cup cream, 1/4 cup ice cream, 1/2 cup rich milk, large cup skim milk, 1 large egg.
Meats: 1/2 cup salmon, 1/2 oz. liver, 1 and one-third oz. boiled ham, 1/2 cup canned salmon, 3 oz. lean cooked fish; 1/2 cup codfish, 4 thin slices of bacon.
Others: 3 slices of bread, 1 cup of cooked breakfast food, 2 tablespoons of sugar.
These figures were taken from "Feeding the Family" by Mary Swartz Rose.

CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

BY BETTY WALLACE

YESTERDAY, Martha fights loneliness with Paul and Suzanne helping. When a girl in the office remarks that Mr. Eckert won't let Martha get lonely, she begins to wonder if she is seeing Paul too frequently. One night, Paul arrives at the apartment without Suzanne. They've quarreled. Paul takes Martha to a hotel for dinner and makes love to her. While she waits for Paul to take Butch for an airing, she overhears her neighbors. "That man— at this time of night. . . . Listening!"
SUZANNE PAYS A CALL
CHAPTER V
MARTHA whirled in sick surprise. She peered out into the hall, but whoever it was had already gone. The shuffle of feet on the stairs, going up, and the stammering of a door on the floor above, however, told her a second later that it must have been the stout, gray-haired school teacher who lived with the thin, spindly piano teacher.
"Neighbors!" she thought, furiously. "Dear, nosy, nasty-minded neighbors!"
A moment later, Butch came bounding up the stairs. His tail wagged, his little paws reached up—stubby, of course—and his eyes told her how much he loved her. It was curiously comforting. She closed the door, put the chain on, and thought, "The devil with them."
BUT the little incident stayed with her. For days, she could not shake it off. Once she passed the stout school teacher on the stairs, and she avoided the sharp eyes, holding her head high.
She did not mention the incident to Paul. It was too ridiculous.
The only thing that troubled her was that Suzanne did not telephone, and Paul did not bring her around again, as she had expected. The quarrel must have been more serious than she had realized. It came by himself. And she simply could not drown that feeling of eyes watching her as she left the apartment with him; eyes again as they said good night at the door.
Bill's letters were short. Shorter than she liked. He seemed very cheerful, even happy. He dutifully said he missed her, sent her loads of love. "The only thing that worries me," he wrote, "is how you're getting along. I hate to think you're lonely or worrying about me. The camp is swell, better than the Reception Station. We're in winterized tents, barracks too, but I drew a tent. The first 13 weeks here are supposed to toughen us up; maybe that's the idea of the tent. Darling, be sure end. It was about 100 miles but Peg could make it.

She picked up the telephone. "Hello."
It wasn't Bill. It was Suzanne Decker.
"TRYING to get you on the telephone is about as hard as getting Greta Garbo," she said. "For heaven's sake, where have you been?"
"I've been out a lot," Martha admitted guiltily. "I was just thinking about it."
"Out with Paul?" asked Suzanne. There was something tight in her voice. Something held back, waiting. . . .
"Yes." She hurried on, "Whatever happened between you two idiots, anyway? Why don't you come around any more? I asked Paul, but he told me exactly nothing. What did you fight about, if you did fight?"
"Suppose I come over right now? I've wanted to talk to you. In fact, that's why I called."
"Why, of course, come right over."
She went to the bedroom, after she hung up, and looked critically into the mirror. Paul had said she wasn't looking so well. And Suzanne was always perfectly perfect; her hair glossy, each curl in place, her makeup artful. She couldn't explain to herself why suddenly she wanted to look well for Suzanne. It had something to do with the way the other girl had asked, "Out with Paul?" but she didn't want to think about that.
Suzanne appeared, in soft black. Silver foxes were slung across her shoulders. Her mouth was very red, her voice very gay. But her eyes were not happy. Martha saw that at once. Saw that there was purpose in the squared, slender shoulders; something beneath the mannered way Suzanne divested herself of hat, gloves, furs and sat down on the sofa.
"I called you at least a dozen times," she said.
"There was a silence. Suzanne lighted a cigaret. Her fingers were shaking.
"Martha," she began, "Martha, I'm putting my nose into something that's none of my business, maybe. But—well—"
"Don't apologize," Martha said. "What's the matter?"
"You're sure Paul didn't tell you what we quarrelled about?"
"No, I haven't the least idea," Suzanne took a long, deep drag on the cigaret. "We quarrelled about you," she said, very distinctly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Value Jesus Placed on Human Life
A Timely Lesson in World of Today
Text: Luke 14:1-14

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.,
Editor of Advance

It would be impossible to overestimate the importance and timeliness of these lessons we are studying in relation to what is going on in the world today. An outstanding impression, as one reads his daily paper with its news of killings in different parts of the world, is of the cheapness in which life is held.

Jesus asked, "How much is a man better than a sheep?" but masses of our fellowmen are daily being led, or driven, as sheep to the slaughter.

Contrast with all this the emphasis Jesus put on the value of human life, or the value of personality. To His own day He was in conflict with those who valued their own ideas of religion and of orthodoxy more than kindness and helpfulness toward their fellowmen.

A ruler of the Pharisees—a good church member, as we might say today—had asked Jesus to his home on the Sabbath Day, and while He was there, there were others who were spying on Him. Whether this man, prominent among the Pharisees, had invited Jesus there that they might thus spy on Him is not clear; but Jesus was there, a guest in his home. It has been suggested that this Pharisee was himself breaking the Jewish Sabbath law in thus having a feast on the Sabbath Day.

At any rate, among the company, or as one who was brought in, was a man who had dropsy. Jesus realized that these narrow-minded people, knowing His reputation for healing, were questioning whether or not He took the initiative and asked them, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath Day or not?" They ignored His question, but Jesus went ahead and healed the man, who went away.

Jesus, realizing the thoughts of the company at the table, asked them a further question, "Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a well and will not straightway draw him up?" Again, they did not answer. But silence evidently did not indicate consent or approval of the fine act of healing Jesus had done.

What is the highest thing in personality? Jesus here suggests that a very high thing—if not the highest—is humility. The more a man feels the height of great standards, the more the glory of the moral law appears to him, the less he will be disposed to overvalue himself. The finer a man's spirit, the keener his perceptions, the more inevitable is it that his attitude is one of humility toward God and toward his fellow-

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Kenneth L. Spore, Pastor

The pastor of the Methodist church, The Rev. Kenneth L. Spore, is very much pleased with the nice increase in the crowd at the service last Sunday night, due to the change in the hour from 7:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

This change has been made for the month of January and will possibly be continued through the month of February. The subject of the pastor's message at 5:30 p. m., Sunday, will be "Steadfastness in Religion." The subject at the 10:30 a. m. service will be "Most in the Church." Church School convenes at 10 a. m. and the Young People's Meetings are held at 6:30 p. m.

men. So, along with this lesson of humility, Jesus taught the lesson of kindness and service to others.

Blessedness in life, according to Jesus, comes not from what we do for those who can recompense us, but in what we do for those who are in need. It is the things we do without hope of reward that constitute our real expression of what we are and what we value most.

Baptist Training Union meets for general assembly at 6:30.

A cordial welcome is assured all who attend the services at First Baptist church.

Attention is called to the Bible Conference at the Gospel Tabernacle next week, and Baptists who can do so are urged to provide entertainment for the visiting preachers.

CATHOLIC CHURCH

Sunday is the Feast of the Holy Family of Jesus, Mary and Joseph. The Sacrifice of the Mass will be offered at 10 o'clock. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow the Mass.

It is the wish of Our Most Reverend Bishop, John B. Morris, that all Catholics throughout the Diocese pray this Sunday for the special intention of the Holy Name Society. The purpose of this organization is to promote a greater love and a greater respect for the most beautiful name of Jesus. This Sunday especially, he asks that everyone offer prayers for the preservation of Christian and American ideals and principles. Never before in the history of our country have our principles and ideals been jeopardized as they are today. With prayer, all things are possible. Let everyone implore the throne of God to safeguard and solidify our Democracy. The Bishop further urges as many as possible to receive Holy Communion on this day and remember this intention. There will be a special broadcast in conjunction with Holy Name Sunday on the Church of the Air Program, Columbia Network from 12 to 12:30 p. m. During this broadcast the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott O. P. Dominican Provincial of St. Joseph's Province will speak on "The Holy Name Society and Loyalty." It is the earnest wish of this column that all will make it a point to tune in on this important broadcast.

The only way some people will give is up or in.

Razorbacks to Play Longhorns

Hogs Have Won 6 of 7 in Warm-Up Games

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—With seven warm-up games behind them, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks will open their Southwest conference title bid in a pair of games with the University of Texas Longhorns at Austin, Friday and Saturday, January 10 and 11.

The Razorbacks lost only one game of their pre-conference schedule, and that was to the Phillips Oilers, national AAU champions, on the Oilers' home court at Bartlesville, Okla. Arkansas had previously beaten the Phillips team at Little Rock. Pre-season games resulted as follows:

Arkansas 62 Drury 17
Arkansas 46 Drury 20
Arkansas 52 Murray, Ky., Teachers 30.
Arkansas 58 Southwestern (Memphis) 35
Arkansas 38 Phillips Oilers 24
Arkansas 33 Phillips Oilers 35
Arkansas 48 Pittsburgh, Kan. Teachers 45.

Records of these games show that the Razorbacks averaged 47 points per game while holding their opponents to an average of 29 points.

Arkansas' individual scoring leader is John Adams, who has dropped in 41 field goals and 20 field goals and 9 free throws. Other Arkansas scorers and their points are as follows: Wynne 45, Pitts 33, Hickey 19, Robbins 19.

The score-book shows that the Razorbacks committed 68 fouls in seven games. The cleanest record is held by Pitts and Robbins, each of whom has been charged with only 3 fouls. Arkansas' giant, Freiburger, 6-8 center, and Carpenter, 5-6 forward, have 16 and 15 fouls, respectively, charged against them.

The Razorbacks' starting lineup against the Longhorns Friday night will include three seniors and two sophomores. Adams, senior, and Carpenter, sophomore, will start at the forwards. Captain Freiburger, senior, will be at center. Hickey, senior, and Wynne, sophomore, will play the guards.

Texas' lineup is expected to include five veterans: Houpt, Moore, Granville, Hull and Cooley or Kutner.

Coach Glen Rose of the Razorbacks saw the Longhorns perform in the Oklahoma City tournament during the holidays. Rose reported that Texas had a "swell ball club" and that two of the Texans were named on the all-tournament team.

Although he has what he believes is one of the greatest teams in his eight years as basketball coach here, Rose is plenty worried about the two games with Texas this week-end. "If we can get over the hump down at Austin," we'll be on the inside track for the championship," said Rose.

The Arkansas team will entrain for Texas Thursday night. Players who will make the trip are Captain Freiburger, John Adams, Gordon Carpenter, Clayton Wynne, Howard Hickey, O'Neal Adams, R. C. Pitts, A. E. Mitchell, Bob Honea, Noble Robbins and Kenneth McCormick.

Chevrolet Has Banner Year

Sales Manager Reports 2nd Best Year in History

DETROIT—The second greatest sales year in the history of Chevrolet was announced here Friday by W. E. Holler, general sales manager, with the report that a total of 1,046,069 new Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars were sold by dealers during the calendar year 1940. This figure represents a gain of 32 per cent over 1939, he said, when dealers sold at retail a total of 791,886 new cars and trucks.

Chevrolet sales topped the preceding year in all departments and were second only to 1936 in company history, Mr. Holler said. Used car sales totalled 1,909,972, an increase of 21.7 per cent over 1939, when dealers sold 1,569,201 units. New and used cars combined were 2,956,041.

Truck sales likewise showed a substantial gain during the year, the report shows, totalling 197,202, an advance of 11.9 per cent over the 176,090 sold during 1939.

During the final month of the year, dealers retailed 95,119 new cars and trucks, a gain of 6,395 units over December 1939. They sold 138,581 used cars, an increase of 12,356 over December 1939, and 18,896 trucks, a gain of 33.7 per cent.

Bruce Catton Says: Catton Highlights Exit of Texan After 38 Years

WASHINGTON — The long political life of Vice President John Nance Garner is flickering unappetizingly as it burns down to the socket.

Presiding over the opening of a new session of the senate for the last time—he returns to private life Jan. 20—Cactus Jack is a subdued and lonely figure.

For one thing, Mrs. Garner is not here.

It means more to say that about Jack Garner than it would to say it of any other man on Capitol Hill. Etta Garner has been his helpmate in every sense of the word. She has been his secretary through all of the years of his service in Washington, and he has been here since 1903. She used to get down to the office half an hour ahead of him, mornings, to get his mail opened and his routine prepared.

But this year she didn't come back to Washington for the brief 18-day period that remained to him in office. She stayed in Texas, visiting her son and his family. And as the 77th congress met in joint session to receive the President's message, senate wives remarked to each other, "Tomorrow would be the day Etta Garner would have us to lunch—if she were here."

Office Desolate

After the session ended, the vice president jammed his gray felt hat down over those startling, gleaming white eye-brows and stalked off to the senate office building, followed by two cronies, Indian file. His chauffeur, who has been serving for his regular secretarial staff, opened the door of the vice presidential office suite and Garner went in.

The central office was bare and desolate. A few tubes for telephone wires stuck up from the floor, where the desks had been, and the carpet was touched with dark squares where the desks had protected it from the sun. Bare, likewise, and stripped of its furniture, was the room at the right, where Mrs. Garner had presided for eight years.

If she had been here she probably would have had some coffee on a gas burner in a closet off her office

Americans Are Good Neighbors

The Old Log-Rolling Still Exists in Places

By RAY PEACOCK
AP Feature Service Writer

Did you see that writeup in the weekly paper? There's a barn raising at Ed's place today. That's where all the cars were going this morning.

Poor Ed got burned out. He put up his hay when it was a little too green, and he woke up one night smelling smoke. Flames were shooting out from under the barn eaves, rates were running all over the place and the stock was going crazy. Ed got his pants on in a hurry, but all he and the neighbors could do was save a couple of calves and keep the house from going too.

Before the fire was out, one of the neighbors brought up the subject of a barn raising to help Ed out. Everybody agreed it was a mighty fine idea. They'd do it in a day, after Ed got his mind set on how he wanted it built.

So today is the day. The new foundation, fifty feet farther from the house, is dry. Everybody got out to Ed's buy sun-up, and by sundown the roof will be on. They're all having a great time too, working harder for Ed than they'd work for themselves.

The womenfolks are making a regular picnic out of it, having a satisfying visit and frying such steaks that it makes a man weak to smell them, right before dinner. Ed had some feeder stock that missed the fire because it was pastured out at night, and he knew how his neighbors would go for some prime beef.

It goes without saying that Ed is mighty grateful about the whole thing. He knew he had good neighbors and this proves it. His pa's folks and their neighbors did the same thing right in the same county for a good many years, and Ed would be the first to lend a hand if one of his neighbors got burned out too. Only he doesn't wish anybody that kind of luck, of course.

Americans Would Say 'Give It Back to Indians'

By ALFRED C. ROWLAND
AP Feature Service

PAPEETE, Tahiti—The war of 1914-18 changed the South Sea Islands from a Polynesian to a European pattern of life. The present war bids fair to restore them to their primitive state.

The American colony in Tahiti is thinning out rapidly. One party chartered a special ship to take it to Honolulu. British and French families returned to their homelands in large numbers when their sons entered military service.

As an American would put it, they are "giving the country back to the Indians."

Books Brought Them

The whites who settled here long ago because they loved the natural charm and quiet tempo of the island do not regret the departure of the post-war "escapes." This hard-drinking class was attracted largely by sensational books.

The new arrivals had money, and the whole west coast from Papeete to Taravao became a city of bungalows. Now that ocean commerce is irregular—censorship forbids any enlargement on this point—the white colony finds its foreign food and liquor supply cut off, and the ex-patriates are going home.

The natives are getting along all right on their diet of fish, breadfruit, taro, mountain plantain and wild pig. There is only one European food they really crave—bread. The Chinese baker is a fixture in nearly every Polynesian village.

Follows DeGaulle

Tahiti is a French colony but has decided by plebiscite to adhere to General DeGaulle's "Free France."

Two plots to seize control for the Vichy government have been quietly put down. The plotters were deported.

Hand-in-hand with the reversion to primitive economics is a cultural revolution. The native language journal, Te Ven Maohi, continually urges a return to the simple life. Even before the war the French government fostered this movement, forbidding white men to land on certain "unspoiled" islands.

Two Cash Crops

The future of Tahiti is bound up with its two cash crops—copra and vanilla.

Britain Is Looking for Night-Raid Solution

By BILL WHITE
AP Feature Service

LONDON — War-weary Britons, satisfied that the RAF has almost completely nullified the threat of daytime air raids, are demanding now an answer to the four-month-old horror of night raids.

And there seems to be no immediate hope in sight.

Some 14 weeks ago, Sir Archibald Sinclair, Minister for Air, declared, "I am able to look forward to a time when the pleasure of night bombing over Britain will cease to be attractive to Reich Marshal Goering and his aerial minions."

Good News

Those words were hailed by everyone who had huddled in a shelter or had his sleep broken by the terrorizing whump of bombs and the answering clatter of anti-aircraft guns.

But the two-part job of locating the night-prowling enemy and downing him is not simple as it first appeared. Anti-aircraft guns, even by day, are none too accurate. The World War average of "20,000 shells per night" still appears to hold good. By night, the guns are less accurate. They can keep the enemy high and spoil his aim, but they aren't likely to turn back a determined raid. The barrage balloons and the searchlight are helpful—but simply keeping "Jerry" high isn't enough—for obvious mathematical reasons. Sound travels about 1,100 feet a second, but by the time a plane speeds 200 miles an hour at 25,000 feet is heard on the ground, the machine is more than a mile from the point at which the sound originated.

So far the British ack-ack, gunners have been credited with bringing down more than 300 enemy aircraft by day and more than 100 by night. But that is not enough.

Competent observers are certain that the night fighter plane is the solution—but present planes for that purpose are falling far short of the results sought.

The night pilot, too, has his problems. He is deaf to all other sounds and sometimes temporarily blinded by the reflection of searchlights on his propeller. His enemy may be thousands of feet above or below him, miles to the front or on either side.

New Plane Needed

So the remedy must come in a new type plane.

The air correspondent of the London Evening News says it must have (1) a perfect all-around view, (2) a
